Förhandsgranskning / Preview

SSG® Updated 2014-03-04
(Edition 2)

REPORT SSG 3901E

Date 1999-11-01

Designation TKM/TKA/ TKB/TKE/ TKI/TKR

Page 1 (7)

Project structure. Planning scheme proposal.

Scope

This Report is intended as guidance and support for the implementation of part or a whole project. The report is aimed to project organizations for guidance in running projects and to Contractors/Suppliers for common understanding of project implementation together with the Purchaser.

This report was updated 2014-03-04 to make project phases illustrations more clearly. The update includes heading adjustment, former Chapter 1 is now the 4th. Other chapters have been added for better overview of the document according to a new standard template. Chapter 4.6 has been clarified in terms of start-up. Body text is otherwise unchanged.

Contents

1 Related documents . . . 1
2 Terminology . . . 1
3 General . . . 2
4 Project phases . . . 2
4.1 Concept study . . . 2
4.2 Pre-study . . . 3
4.3 Pre-project . . . 5
4.4 Designing . . . 5
4.5 Construction/erection . . . 6
4.6 Start-up . . . 6
4.7 Technical follow-up and economic follow-up . . . 7
5 References . . . 7

1 Related documents

Documents that may be of interest to the reader but not covered in this document:

— SSG Delivery contract. If the purchaser establishes such a contract, the project sequencing and the standards to be used will be controlled by this.

2 Terminology

Project activities
Defined to include one or more of the following activities:

— directed towards a defined target

— limited with regard to area, time and costs (often subject to pressure of time and cost control)

— outside normal current activity

— affects several organisational units which require coordination

— requires a temporary organisation suited to the size and complexity of the project

— in most cases complicated (technique, market, administration) and wide ranging in relation to own resources and normal assignments

— unique as regards content, extent and organisation.

Not to be reprinted without permission